

TEACHERS, TAKE THE LOCAL PAPER

If you mean money to "keep school" the local paper is not essential. If, on the other hand, you are a real, honest-to-goodness teacher (and therefore a leader) the local paper is one of the tools that you must have.

You should supply the pupils from fresh living water and not from a stagnant pool. Hence you will need the local paper with which to illustrate civics, geography, current events, etc.

Then, too, you must remember that nine times out of ten the one person who will take the time to cooperate with you is the editor of the local paper. He is not mercenary, or he would have chosen another calling. He, like you, is interested in everything for the good of the people. He may make mistakes, and doubtless will, but his heart is in the right place. He is anxious to do everything possible for you and your school, but he is a very busy man, often overworked and underpaid.

When you arrive in town you should let everything go until you have looked up the editor and given him your subscription. There's no excuse to neglect this moral support that you owe to your best friend. You may be broke. Tell the editor. You will get his sympathy. No one has been there more often than he, and nothing will please him more than to send the paper until you get a check.

Should you have a hard community get the patrons to subscribe for the local paper. You may rest assured that a small per cent of such communities take their paper. Thus you will show your leadership by co-operating with the most influential factor of your community.—Kentucky School News.

WAGE REDUCTIONS ARE CALLED WRONG

Assertion that "a wage reduction policy is wrong in every way and unnecessary" was made by Will I. Ohmer, of Chicago, chairman of the Board of the Associated Motor Industries, an automobile merger embracing seven cars and trucks and including the Kentucky Wagon Works of Louisville. Outlining his wage policy, Mr. Ohmer said:

"Everybody should join now in harmonious work for production and prosperity for all. Talk of wage reduction is entirely out of harmony. Where is prosperity if there is wage reduction? We are building up now and not tearing down."

"We believe that wage workers should have the opportunity to earn more wages instead of less. Talk of cutting down wages of workmen and women is the most harmful talk that could be indulged in now."

"What this country and the world wants is harmony, mutual good will, confidence and greater production. Wage reduction can only produce discontent, pessimism and limited production."

"The essential argument is that wage reduction is not necessary, but, on the contrary, is the very thing that would defeat what is necessary, namely efficient production."

"Reduction of costs should not be brought about by reduction of wages. What the times call for is superior methods of manufacture, not wage cutting."

"We are going to have prosperity and, in fact, it is here now. So don't let us spoil everything by wage reduction talk. We don't want less wages for the workers—we want more wages and we want to make the opening greater for them to earn more."

POPULAR EDITOR HEADS STATE "PRESS GANG"

Gemmill B. Senff, editor of the Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat, was elected president of the Kentucky Press Association at its concluding session at Crab Orchard, succeeding W. L. Dawson, editor of the Oldham Era, at La Grange.

Mr. Senff was vice-president of the K. P. A. last year and chairman of its Legislative Committee. To his work in the latter capacity is attributed much of the success of newspapers of the State in getting through the General Assembly the law classifying newspaper plants as manufacturing and exempting them from all taxation except for State purposes. Mr. Senff is one of the most popular editors in the State.

The only invitation yet received by the press association for next year's meeting is one from the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce. This informed the Executive Committee of the association that the New Capitol Hotel would be completed by this time and would be ready to take care of the delegates.

POULTRY, BUTTER AND EGGS MARKETS

Movement of live poultry has been heavier than usual for this time of the year and as the demand for dressed poultry has fallen off to some extent, prices have worked to a lower level. It is the opinion of some of the trade that prices for poultry during the past few years have been higher relatively than for other kinds of meat, and for that reason, some are predicting lower values for all kinds of poultry for the entire season.

The quality of eggs being shipped at the present time is somewhat better than a week or two ago, on account of more favorable weather. The supply arriving at consuming markets is still greater than the demand, and surplus stocks are going to storage. Indications point to an extremely large surplus in storage July 1, over the same period last year, and the trade generally looks for reasonable values to continue throughout the remainder of the year.

Butter production is showing further decrease on account of pasturage conditions, but as there were heavy rains throughout a large portion of the producing territory last week, the decrease from now on should be more gradual. The demand continues good for butter for consuming purposes and for storage. The export demand which existed a few weeks ago, has, for the present been taken care of.

JURY DISAGREES IN THE COHEN CASE

Charles Cohen, Lexington, merchant, on trial for shooting and wounding Jos. W. Porter last November, again was liberated on $5,000 bond, when the jury trying the case was dismissed by Circuit Judge R. C. Stoll after reporting that there was no hope of reaching an agreement.

It was reported that the jury stood ten for conviction and two for acquittal in the final balloting. Two members who voted for an acquittal on the first ballot went over for conviction before the balloting ended, it was said.

At Cohen's first trial last April the jury reported that it was hopelessly deadlocked and was discharged after many hours of deliberation. The final ballot stood seven for conviction and five for acquittal.
